CAB outlines broadcast strategy for the 1990s

These are difficult but exciting times for private broadcasting in Canada, according to the Canadian Association of Broadcasters (CAB).

In a speech delivered to the Canadian Media Conference in Toronto on December 5, CAB President Michael McCabe outlined the broadcast industry organization's plan for the coming decade.

McCabe cited declining profit margins as a warning signal to the industry, noting that 45 percent of private radio stations are unprofitable. He said that private radio enjoyed a profit margin of only 3.3 percent in 1989, while the pre-tax profit margin of private television fell from 19 percent in 1985 to 7.5 percent in 1989. He nevertheless predicted that the 1990s would be "a decade of opportunity for private broadcasters."

The broadcasters' strategy - outlined in McCabe's speech and in a document entitled Taking The Lead - argues that the future of private broadcasting lies in strengthening local broadcasting. "Local private broadcasters will see their role strengthened," McCabe said, "as local audiences increasingly seek to see and hear themselves and their hometown in the midst of the global media glut."

He also took as an encouraging sign the increasing agreement on the future of broadcasting between the industry and longtime adversaries at government regulators such as the CRTC and Department Of Communications. He said that "preliminary indications from the CRTC are that they are favourable to our proposals" concerning radio broadcasting. These include substantial deregulation, "rationalization and consolidation," the introduction of digital radio on a broad scale by the mid-1990s, and the emergence of "relevant regional and market groupings" for programming and marketing purposes. McCabe said these measures could lead to the strengthening of local radio service.

The CAB's proposals to "kick start" television broadcasting also hinge on increased local programming. McCabe pointed out that while in the past "the position of the CRTC and the policy-makers was that they had to force us to put more and more Canadian programming on our screens...Today, this is no longer the case. Today, the interests of the regulator and the broadcaster are substantially the same. We continue to depend upon the revenues from our U.S. programming, but competition has raised the cost of that programming and our margins have therefore diminished. On the other hand, Canadian programming has become substantially better."

As an example of the new era of co-operation between regulator and private broadcasters, McCabe noted with satisfaction that the CRTC recently proposed "that all of the quantitative requirements for local programming, except for news, be removed."

BMG launches film/TV music department

BMG recently took the first step in building a film and television music department with the appointment of John Parres to the newly-created position of director, film and television music for BMG Music Publishing.

The company hopes to set up a comprehensive film and television department which will handle the licensing, administration and creative placement of songs in the area.

Earlier this year, BMG Music Publishing released its first music publishing collection, a six-volume box set ranging over 30 years, in a move aimed at film and television music users.

Parres joins BMG from Warner Special Products in Burbank, California, where he dealt extensively with film and television production companies.

Pringle to play Toronto's Top O' The Senator

Peter Pringle, who is well known as a recording artist, songwriter and actor, will make a rare club appearance at the Top O' The Senator in Toronto from December 17 through 22.

Pringle last performed in Toronto in Noel Coward - A Portrait, a one man show he created with the approval of the late playwright's estate.

A Montrealer, Pringle, who is bilingual, continues to enjoy much success in French-speaking Canada. He is currently on release with Lucky Star, a duet with Quebec chanteuse Pier Beland which is in the top ten in the duo's home province.

For his Toronto date, Pringle will be joined by a trio comprised of John Gilbert (piano/synthesizers), Bucky Berger (drums), and Bob Hewus (bass).

For further information contact Jane Harbury at 416-535-7821.

McCabe also stressed the need for "an industrial, as well as cultural," approach to television programming, arguing that "the market potential of a project must match the budget and to do this, at times, will require themes and production elements that will be attractive beyond Canada."

McCabe stressed that unity was the greatest strength of the industry at the moment. "There is now no substantial difference of opinion on how to put private radio and television in a position to succeed in the 1990s. We have a plan. The challenge now is to make it happen."

Justin plans major canon releases for banner 1991

With some powerful Canadian product already on the go, independent Toronto label Justin Entertainment, is continuing the spree with more releases planned for new year.

"We're expanding the company into other areas," says label-owner Jeff Burns. "But our main mandate has always been to (develop) domestic talent."

Blackpool, a band out of Halifax, is the first of various new signings which will be making an appearance in 1991. The band already has a strong foothold in their native province, and recruited producer Terry Brown of Blue Rodeo and Rush fame to produce their debut, We The Living.

Western Front and Jeffrey Hatcher are also slated releases for January and February. Western Front is a Toronto group featuring vocalist Joey Feeney, and are managed by Prairie Oyster manager Alan Kates.

Spring will bring the second album from Klaatu and Hope, Dan Hill's latest effort.

Currently, Justin is concentrating their efforts on Canadians Zahalan, Seventh Son and Goddo, the cult rock band who have resurfaced with 12 Gauge Goddo, a greatest hits album featuring two new tracks as well. Goddo has been creating a stir at retail and in live performances, where the band is selling out many of its shows.

Justin will also be releasing non-Canadian dance artists, Twenty 4 Seven, a band that the label licensed from BCM Records in Germany, and who have already gone gold in Europe.

Some real goodies crossed RPM's threshold last week, first Mary Lynn and James Collins came in with a big, and we mean big, Hershey's Kiss, which was quickly devoured by our resident chocaholic. Later in the week Greg Godovitz presented staffers with a Christmas turkey, but instead of it being stuffed the traditional way, it was packed with cassettes and CDs of Goddo's latest album, 12 Gauge Goddo. Greg arrived with fellow turkey bearer, Lou-Anne Wheaton, of Justin Entertainment. And finally, to the promo person who called pleading to us to ghost write his name on the list: sorry buckwheat, no can do! But here is a complete list of the people who can say "I was there":

COVER STORY by Alison MercerCandi And The Backbeat enthusiastic to remain versatile

At 23, Candita Pennella is no stranger to the music business. As lead vocalist for Candi and the Backbeat, the singer/songwriter has become an astute figure in the industry, keeping a firm grip on reality and a clear focus on future goals.

Stating that she inherited her mother's vocal ability and her father's ear for music, Pennella decided to study music at Toronto's York University. "Art has always been a big part of my life," she says, and choosing a musical path for a career was natural.

Candi and the Backbeat were "spotted" five years ago, and have recently released their second album on the I.R.S. label, World Just Keeps On Turning, follow-up to their self-titled debut. The title track was released as the first single, and peaked on RPM's Hit Track chart at number 15. And on December 5, the band's success was highlighted when they took home the Toronto Music Award for Best Toronto Pop/Dance Group.

Core band members include Pennella, Nino Milazzo on bass and Paul Russo on drums, but Pennella says that they have formed a "family" with the other components to the band, and stresses how important this is.

"It's so nice to be with people you can have fun with. When I get on stage everybody's holding me up, we hold each other up and have a good time. I've seen bands that look like strangers, but I believe that if the public sees that we're having a good time, they'll have a good time."

World Just Keeps On Turning is an evolution for the band. There was a conscious effort to try new and different things, and to break certain boundaries musically and vocally.

Although the album's main style is rooted

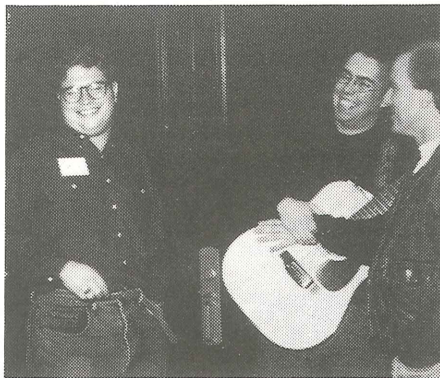

YTV Achievement Awards recognize young talent

Karen Wong, Selena Grouse, Gordon Magee, Jason Overy: these may not be household names yet, but they could be the next big names on the Canadian music scene. All were recent winners at the second Annual YTV Achievement Awards. The awards are to recognize achievements of Canadian youth. Awards were handed out in a nationally-televised show Nov. 2, in Toronto, in 15 different categories ranging from Acting and Bravery to Sports and Writing.

There were several musical awards, including the Instrumental Award, won by 14-year-old Karen Wong of Vancouver. This gifted pianist made the judges look good with a dazzling performance during the show. Gordon Magee and Jason Overy (known as Gord 'n Jase) won in the Specialty Performance category. The 17-year-olds from Victoria performed a unique and entertaining drum duet.

The Vocal winner is a very talented 15-year-old from Toronto. Selena Grouse, who performed one of her own compositions on the awards show, was thrilled with the award: "For me, it's like having a Grammy award at a younger age." If her musical career takes off as planned, and she does win a Juno or Grammy, Selena says it might not have the same impact as this award. "A Grammy award wouldn't mean as much as this YTV one because this is what kind of got me started." She is working hard on her music and, when finished high school, plans to attend university and study law.

Members of Barenaked Ladies, yuking it up with YTV's Ron Oliver

An intriguing group by the name of Barenaked Ladies were the winners in the Band category. The Barenaked Ladies are Steven Page, Andrew Creegan, Jim Creegan and Ed Roberston. The four, from Richmond Hill (just north of Toronto), play a mix of alternative, folk, and pop music. Their off-the-wall approach has landed them a weekly gig at a Toronto nightclub. Steven Page admits Barenaked Ladies don't take themselves too seriously. "We take what we do seriously, we enjoy doing it, and we want to be good at it, but a good portion of it is based around having a good time."

Along with the award itself, the winners also received $3,000 and were flown to Toronto for the telecast. That telecast, hosted by Derek McGrath, featured performances by Colin James, Mitsou, and Maxi Priest. Presenters of the awards included CFTR Toronto's Tarzan Dan, Olympic medallist Karen Percy, and the Minister Of Finance, The Honourable Michael Wilson.

in dance, World Just Keeps On Turning makes references to rock and soul, a product of Pennella's solid determination to grow and remain versatile as an artist.

Explaining that she and the band have been exposed to many different genres throughout their lives, Pennella sees no reason why they shouldn't make use of that knowledge.

"I don't like all the walls that have been built up in music. I never want to be labelled as a (one-genre artist). If you can do something different, then do it. Why not let people see another aspect of your personality?"

Already writing material for the third album, Pennella tells of how she has penned several classical preludes for some of the songs, all the while intending for it to be a lot "grittier". The mix may sound a tad eclectic, but Pennella says she loves to "introduce the kids to something they haven't heard yet."

Throughout her career, Pennella's energetic performance and writing styles have often prompted comparisons between herself and other artists, in particular Madonna. But she doesn't find this any cause for concern. "There's only so much creativity out there," she counters. "I don't believe that only one person can come up with a single idea." Acknowledging the similarities, Pennella stresses that the differences are there to be seen as well.

For now, Candi and the Backbeat will be watching the progress of World Just Keeps On Turning, and the release of the second single, Good Together, is slotted for the new year. A tour is in the tentative planning stages, and Pennella is eager start performing again. "We've been a live band for so long," she explains. "When you don't perform for a while, you sort of go a little crazy. I can't wait to get out there again."

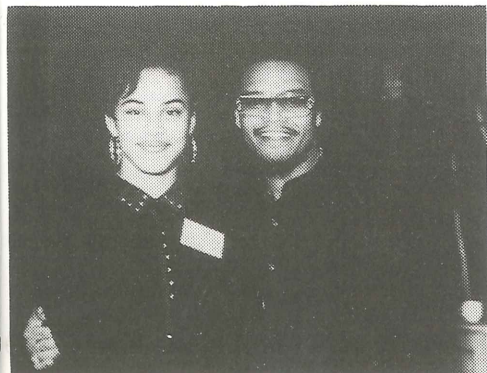

Pennella intends on continuing to expand her musical range, and would eventually like to get involved in score writing. Pennella embraces new challenges, and is crystal clear about wanting to constantly move ahead. "If I can't keep stretching my ability I'll feel like a bird that can only fly in a cage. I always want to do new things, I don't like repeating myself."

Attic signs first Korean distribution deal

Toronto-based Attic Records has signed a deal with Korean label Han Yang Records, giving Han Yang the Korean rights to Attic's roster, which includes artists such as The Nylons, Lee Aaron, Haywire, John James and Rita Coolidge. Initial release is set for early 1991.

The deal makes Attic the first Canadian company to have product released in Korea. Attic President Alexander Mair says the deal "complements our Japanese deal with Alfa Records, and will give our artists increased opportunities to perform in the Pacific rim."

Seoul-based Hang Yan supplies over 700 retail outlets and runs the music departments of the Lotte Stores, Korea's largest chain of department stores, as well as owning over 30 retail stores of its own.

Don Daynard does plan on retiring - someday!

There have been a few rumours that CHFI morning personality Don Daynard is retiring. Well, those rumours are true: he is going to retire, but not today. Talking with Daynard, you sense a man who has many fond memories of the past, is very much enjoying the present, and is looking forward to the future.

Daynard started in radio in Owen Sound in 1953 as a gopher, then an operator, then an announcer. As you can imagine, he has been through many interesting times. "There's been a lot of stuff gone on in those years," he reminisces. "I was working when Rock and Roll was just coming on, Elvis & Bill Haley and all that stuff. I worked at a really conservative station that wouldn't play that. They thought that was the Devil's music. They were the second station in the country to ban Elvis Presley music... you couldn't play Elvis!" Then there's the story of who really was the first radio station in Canada to debut Beatles' singles. "I worked in Smiths Falls when the Beatles started to break, and the RCA Victor plant there was pressing the Capitol singles in those days. They were on three shifts, 24 hours a day, mostly doing Beatles and we used to get the new Beatles singles from one of the guys in the plant before anybody... even CHUM in Toronto. We'd have these things on the air the day they came out of the plant... this would be two or three days before CHUM got the Canadian premiere."

While he has enough stories for a best-seller, it is obvious he still has a youthful excitement about him. That excitement spills over to the morning show. Part of the credit for that he gives to his partner; "one of the things that makes it fun is that Erin Davis is the co-host, and has been for the past 2 years. She's so good to work with, she so damn fast with lines and quips and things. If you're having a bad day... creatively you're just suckin' air, she can really pull the show along. Then when everything's fine for the both of us and everything's working, that's what makes it fun."

Daynard has seen a lot of changes in radio over the years, so what changes does he see happening in radio in the future? Well, Digital is the biggest thing. "They keep talking about all the technical things that are going to happen when everything is on the same band. Outside of the technical things, I can't see anything major on the horizon. It's pretty well going to be the way it is. The way it used to be, of course, was kinda by the seat of your pants, but now with consultants... that whole aspect of radio has changed and that probably will get even more refined and they'll get more specific on demographics and audience likes and dislikes and that whole thing."

As for the retirement thing, Daynard still has four years left on his contract with CHFI, although he probably won't be there four years from now. "We have not really discussed it here at the station. They're aware of it, I know, it's just I think if we can work something out, I probably will (retire early)." Although he is still enjoying working, he just feels it's time to move on to other things and relax a little more. He adds, "It isn't around the corner, let's not jump to conclusions." When asked what he will look forward to most, he chuckles, "I'm really looking forward to not getting up at 4 o'clock in the morning!" Don Daynard has enjoyed radio life and looks forward to life after radio.

ALBUMS

& THE NEW BOHEMIANS
Ghost Of A Dog
Geffen CD 24304-P

Album two for this group, a tad rockier than it's predecessor which makes for a meatier sound. Brickell's elastic vocal work is sometimes funky, sometimes childlike and always very colourful. The clever, tongue-twisting lyrics are heard in the opening track and first single, Mama Help Me, which is enjoying hearty airplay and good crossover action. Other tunes that stand out are Carmelito, with its ebb and flow momentum, the soft 10,000 Angels and funky Woyaho. Me By The Sea is also good, showing Brickell's introspective qualities and girlish vocals. A very punchy production by Tony Berg. (CD reviewed) - AM

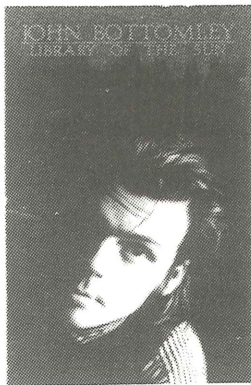

DAVID FOSTER - Pop/Rock
River Of Love
Atlantic CD 82161-P

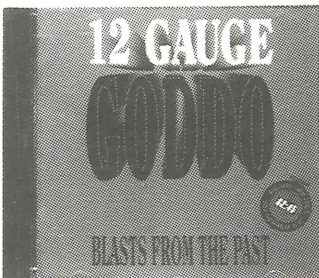

This music veteran pulled together a star-studded cast for this album, produced by himself and Humberto Gatico. The album is obviously a labour of love, every element put exactly in its place, every emphasis meticulously thought out. Insightful lyrics are a focus of the album, delivered by a crew of lead vocalists, making for an interesting type of work. Particularly noteworthy songs are the opening title track, River Of Love featuring the singing of Bryan Adams, Warren Wiebe and Hamish Stuart, Grown Up Christmas List showcasing Natalie Cole's voice, and All I Ever Needed with the heartfelt vocals of Mike Reno. The material on River Of Love will appeal to many formats, and looks to have some major retail appeal. (CD reviewed) - AM

JOHN BOTTOMLEY - Folk/Rock
Library Of The Sun
Latent Recordings C8 - N

John Bottomley, formerly of Toronto band Tulpa, has just released this solo debut on Cowboy Junkies label, Latent Recordings. Bottomley's scratchy voice and narrative writing style combine to create a very grassroots sound; one that lulls but at the same time is very intuitive and shrewd. Produced by John Oliveira and Bottomley, many of Library's tracks stand out, the simplistic arrangements adding to the appeal of the album. Check out the title track, Druid's Map and Bones. (cassette reviewed) -AM

12 Gauge Goddo
Justin Ent. - CD JED-0006-J

Cult band Goddo blasts back onto the scene after a hiatus that lasted close to a decade. The album features all the greatest hits of this hard driving rock band, including Kiss My Whip, Cock On and Sweet Thing. It also contains two new cuts, Quicksand and Was It Something I Said, which is generating a lot of interest and is sitting at No. 2 on RPM's Cancon To Watch Chart. The album should do very well, Goddo's brand of rock is just as current as it was in their heyday and they are creating a good buzz at radio. (CD reviewed) - AM

BEGGARS & THIEVES -Rock
Beggars & Thieves
Atlantic - 782113-2-P

Though this is their debut release, New York hard rock quartet Beggars & Thieves is made up of musicians with years of experience behind them, and it shows. This is an album of standard hard rock, with a number of things going for it: strong, hook-filled songwriting, assured playing and unflagging energy. The songs suffer from a tendency to dissipate their punch by going on just a bit too long, extending a guitar solo a bit too much, but Beggars & Thieves remain a good bet for big things. Produced and mixed by Steve Thompson and Michael Barbiero (Guns N' Roses, Alice Cooper). (CD reviewed) -JL

BARBARA LEAH MEYER - Country
Barbara
DMT - TM56

Pretty exciting stuff here from this Alberta talent. Contains material written by Alberta songwriters including herself who co-wrote Break It To Me Easy with the producer of the album Dan Bagan and her True Love, a duet with Brian Ault. Initial single release, Cajun Walk, written by Jonn Ryane, is now charting nationally. Meyer has a captivating vocal approach that interprets the lyrical content with excellence. There's a softness yet an interesting edge to her vocals. Instrumental backup is exceptional, particularly the keyboards by Teddy Borowiecki and mouth harp work by Rusty Reed. Also key are A Little Like Magic and Hands. (cassette reviewed) - WG

ROSANNE CASH - Country
Interiors
Columbia - CK-46079-H

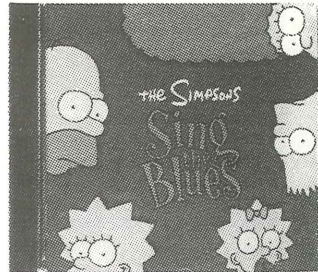

This new album is a little of an uphill battle for Cash, although she is now charting with What We Really Want. There are more meaty tracks on this self-produced album including Dance With The Tiger, which she co-wrote with John Stewart and Real Woman, a co-penning with Rodney Crowell. Perhaps a little more concentration on Canadian dates would give her a greater visibility with country programmers. (CD reviewed) - WG

When They Write His Memoirs
gb Records - GB 004

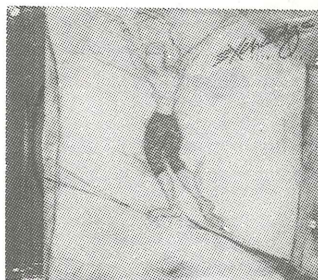

The debut release from this Kitchener, Ontario-based band, available as a CD and cassette, shows a lot of promise in its own rough way. Singer and songwriter Gord Bolan writes strong lyrics set for the most part in a folk/blues ballad style, and both the low-key musicianship and the method of recording - live off the floor of the band's rehearsal studio - add to the simplicity of the songs. While slower songs like the title track slip close to a moribund minimalism, numbers like Highway Spinout and Footsteps Pounding generate more energy and a bit of variety. Deliberately unpolished, Gord's Ramble seem refreshingly confident of who they are, and that is a definite asset. (CD reviewed) -JL

THE SIMPSONS -Rap/Novelty
Sing The Blues
Geffen CD 24308-P

I'm certain this piece of Simpson's merchandise will be as popular as the show itself. The first single, Do The Bartman, is a catchy rap tune performed by Bart himself. It entered the RPM Hit Tracks chart this week at 75 with a bullet; and the album itself debuted at No. 44 with a bullet on RPM 100 Albums chart. Included on this set are Randy Newman's I Love To See You Smile, D.J. Jazzy Jeff's Deep, Deep Trouble and Billie Holiday's 1941 classic God Bless The Child. All tracks are appealing, if you're into the Simpsons. Caution: Don't purchase this marketing masterpiece if you lack a sense of humour. (CD reviewed) -SL

EXCHANGE - New Age
Between Places
Mesa Blue Moon R2 79019-N

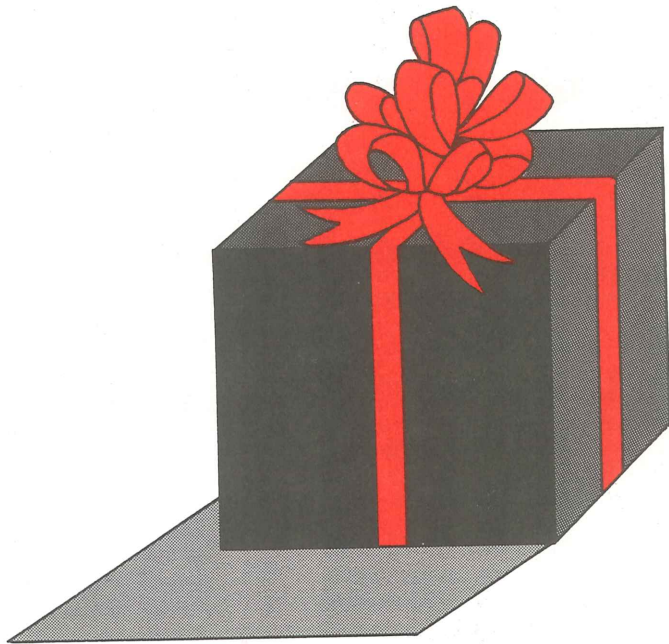

Exchange is a Canadian duo which produces instrumental new age music featuring a lot of electric keyboard work. The band has recently produced a video for Compass Rose, the first single from the album, a swelling track that seems to fill up the entire listening space. The album is a collection of evocative tunes, each with its own musical theme. Standing out in particular the frantic Lifeline, and romantic Alibi. Roger Whittaker puts his amazing whistling talents to use in an appearance on Without Cause. The album is pure and relaxing, and will do well in its genre at radio and retail. (CD reviewed) - AM

There's excitement galore on the video chart this week, with no fewer than four new entries. INXS' Greatest Video Hits got off to a slow start when it was released in November, but this week it surges into the number three spot on the chart. Also making its debut is the first classical longform ever to appear on the RPM top ten, a concert by tenors Carreras, Domingo and Pavarotti, as well as R.E.M.'s Tourfilm and Depeche Mode's Strange Too.

Madonna Public service announcement: The immaculate one's controversial and widely banned new video, Justify My Love, was not, as many will know, included on her Immaculate Collection longform. But take heart: the folks at WEA Video have released it as a video single, retailing for $13.98. Clever.

And the winners are... Which group had the number one video of the year? Not too hard to figure out. New Kids On the Block had not only the number one, but the top three videos of 1990. But it wasn't just new kids who had video success this year. Among the top ten longforms are one deceased artist and four whose careers span more than twenty years. The top longforms of the year are: New Kids On the Block, Step By Step (CBS); New Kids On the Block, Hangin' Tough (CBS); New Kids On the Block, Hangin' Tough, Live (CBS); Sinead O'Connor, The Value Of Ignorance (PolyGram); Alice Cooper, Trashes The World (CBS); Roger Waters, The Wall - Live In Berlin (PolyGram); Metallica, Cliff 'Em All (WEA); Van Morrison, In Concert (PolyGram); Bob Marley and the Wailers, The Bob Marley Story (MCA) and Aerosmith, Things That Go Pump In The Night (WEA).

Newsworkers semi-satisfied with jobs: Study

by George Pollard

News is what newspeople make it, and the news is good. A study of Canada's daily news media workforce finds it highly qualified, professional and free from interference or undue supervision. Newsrooms are seen as good places to work. A professional education gets poor grades. Newsworkers would select the work and job again, but wouldn't recommend it to others.

How the study was performed

In February, 1001 questionnaires were mailed to a random sample of the daily news media workforce. The sample reflected the basic workforce characteristics: medium, language, market, region, gender. Names were drawn from the December 1989 Matthews List, a triennial census of the media employees in Canada. About one in three reporters, newscasters, editors and others working in radio, newspaper and TV newsrooms received the questionnaire.

By July, 52.9 percent had been returned. A telephone follow-up in July produced 107 more completes for an overall response rate of 63.5 percent. About one in five members of the daily news media workforce participated in the study.

What the study found

A typical member of the daily news media workforce, if one exists, is a 35-year-old married Anglophone male who is equally likely to be a university or community college graduate and unlikely to have a newswork education. But, if he does, it's from a community college and considered only moderately satisfactory. He has had 3.3 news jobs over an 11-year career, works in a newsroom with 19.4 employees in a large Ontario market and earns $36,539 annually from a job he has held for seven years.

Women make up about 20 percent of Canada's daily news media workforce, and 36.9 percent of respondents. They were twice as likely as men to respond.

Broadcast newsworkers are younger, more likely single, have less news experience and shorter careers than their print counterparts. These findings may reflect staff turnover rate, demands of the work and mobility requirements, among other things necessary for career advancement in broadcast news.

Women are more evident in broadcast news. They're younger than their male counterparts, 30.5 compared with 37.5 years. Half of all women newsworkers are under 30, compared with 22 percent of men; 12.8 percent are 37 years of age or older compared with 45.2 percent of men.

Broadcast newsworkers are most likely to be community college graduates and have a newswork education. Given that radio and TV newsworkers, especially women, are younger than those on daily newspapers, these data most likely reflect increased opportunities for newswork education over the past 15 years. All newspeople, however, see a need for newswork education.

Women are more likely to have a post-secondary education. They're twice as likely as men to have a newswork education.

Newsworkers on daily papers work the largest newsrooms, have the most news experience and, given time in current job, the steepest careers. These data may reflect a decline in the number of daily newspapers in Canada. Not too many places to go, so stay put. They may also reflect differences in union presence and effectiveness in daily newspaper and broadcast newsrooms. Staying put is made worthwhile.

Women come to newswork with the best formal qualifications. They don't stay long. On average, women have been in news work 7.2 years compared to 13.2 for men. They've been in their current job 4.3 compared to 8.3 years for men.

Salaries; radio pays least

Newspapers pay the most, radio the least. Income ranges from $27,500 in radio to $42,500 on newspapers while TV salaries average $37,500 a year. Pay differences might be tolerable if there were realistic chances for cross-media mobility. There are not. Mobility opportunities are intra-media or maybe to TV. This fuels short radio and TV careers.

Radio incomes are up 16 percent since 1986, but the radio news workforce has shrunk 20 percent in that time. Fewer employees face at least the same workload and are paid a little more.

Pay inequity is typical. Women earn 74.4 cents for every dollar earned by men. In broadcasting, women earn 72 percent as much as men, on newspapers 81 percent as much. This may be the reason women have shorter news careers. The ubiquitous newspaper unions seem to have closed the pay gap for women.

Most newsworkers would choose job, work again

Half of all newsworkers have doubts about recommending a newswork career. Yet, 60 percent would take the same job and 67 percent would select newswork if they could choose again. Newsworkers thrive on newswork, but aren't sure others would.

Newsworkers on daily papers are most satisfied with their jobs, and are most likely to recommend a newswork career. TV newsworkers are least satisfied and have doubts about recommending their line of work and are not sure that they would take the same job again.

Radio newsworkers are split on having doubts and strongly recommending a newswork career, but would select the same job again if given the opportunity.

Newsworkers have high degree of professionalism, growth important

Women are more professionally-oriented than their male co-workers. TV newsworkers are more professionally-oriented than their counterparts in radio and daily newspapers. A broadcast/print split is clear.

On the job, newsworkers emphasize opportunities for initiative/originality, skills/knowledge growth, making full use of their abilities/training, being able to enjoy the work and having a job that's exciting/varied. They de-emphasize getting ahead in the organization, job security, a job not interfering with personal life and contact with important/influential people.

Women more than men emphasize a job that is valuable to the community, skills and knowledge growth, getting ahead in the organization, job security, a job their family is proud of, but doesn't interfere with their personal life.

Newsrooms are positive working environments

Jobs are well-defined, everyone knows what's expected. Newsworkers are seldom in on policy or staffing decisions. Few cases of undue organizational interference or supervision were noted.

Radio newsworkers report more decision participation than those in TV or print. Newspaper and radio workers have a stronger sense of being their own boss and making their own decisions than do those in TV, and TV newsworkers report a higher level of organizational involvement from management. Radio newsworkers are most willing to accept the news director's decisions on organizational and professional matters. Strong interpersonal bonds develop. Radio newsworkers are young and comparatively inexperienced. They may be seeking guidance implicit in management decisions.

Women are more aware of formal job requirements and of being watched to ensure they do not break the rules, and are more willing to accept organizational decisions made by newsroom management.

Summary

There's agreement that newswork is a profession; refresher courses in law, economics and related areas should be available; and courses in newswork ethics, laws and related areas should be an integral part of formal newswork training.

Satisfaction with newswork education is moderate. One radio reporter commented that it could be "a lot more thorough." Comments echoed the impact of flawed formal training.

There are few cases of undue interference in newsrooms, and work-related decisions made by managers are generally accepted.

Canada's daily news media workforce is a professional, male-dominated occupation marked by moderate job satisfaction and demands for more professional development opportunities. Most love the work, but wouldn't recommend it.

Winnipeg's Oak Street delves into family fun

The children's entertainment market share has become one of the fastest-growing portions of our industry. But gone are the days of singing chipmunks that incite giggles but do little to stimulate the mind. A new breed of entertainer has been emerging in Canada, dispelling the notion that children's music must be simple and intellectually empty.

Winnipeg's Oak Street Records is one of North America's only labels dedicating itself entirely to family entertainment, and partners Fred Penner and Gilles Paquin call it a "very serious business."

"Children are the most vulnerable segment of our society," explains entertainer and part label owner Fred Penner. "We have to be aware of this and of the complexity of a child's thought process."

Penner and manager Paquin formed Oak Street in 1987 to fill what they felt was a void in the business. They wanted a label that would dedicate the time and effort to the genre they felt it deserved, and so formed their own.

Oak Street prefers the classification of family, as opposed to children's, entertainment. Fred Penner explains: "If I (as a performer) don't relate as much to the parents as to the child, I'm missing the boat." Penner adds it is necessary to acknowledge who is paying for the product and getting the kids to the concerts.

Initially the label was distributed by A&M throughout North America, but this summer Oak Street switched over to CBS in Canada, retaining A&M's services south of the border. Penner says the label is very happy with the switch, and is "so pleased" with the interest CBS is demonstrating.

Artists signed to the label have a high degree of integrity and morality. Oak Street has unwavering faith in the ability of children to stretch their minds, believing that the higher the quality of product you give a child, the higher the quality they will demand, helping to develop a "more responsible human being."

In four years, Oak Street has established an impressive roster of artists that includes Liona Boyd, Quebecer Carmen Campagne, Americans Riders In The Sky, and Penner himself, who is no stranger to the performance end of things. Paquin is eager that the label move and expand, as the audio side of family entertainment is just the tip of the iceberg.

Video will soon become a focus, and the label is working on European distribution for some artists, like French songstress Campagne. It may also move into different "compatible music formats," in particular some instrumental works, for which Paquin says the label has an affinity.

Penner hosts the daily Fred Penner's Place, a television show broadcast throughout North America. December 15 will see Penner in Toronto, when he brings his entourage for a date at the O'Keefe Centre.

As a performer, Penner is also an enthusiast. "This music is as challenging and fulfilling as anything I've ever done. This is my life. I'm hardcore here!"

Family entertainment is still new in the industry, but Oak Street is not bothered by this. "We're taking it slow and steady," says Penner. "We have a serious commitment to the genre, and we're just planning on delivering good solid product."

CHARTS

The top artist . . . With 4 of this year's top 25 songs, Phil Collins is easily the artist-of-the-year. Among those four songs is the No. 1 song of the year, I Wish It Would Rain Down. It reigned on top for six weeks in the spring and was one of his four No. 1 songs of the year. The only other artist to have two No. 1's this year is Wilson Phillips. This week, Impulsive hits the top and boosts its year-end position to No. 32. They also have two other songs in the top 20.

The top album . . . It was the No. 1 album for 15 straight weeks and is this year's top album by a wide margin. I Do No Want What I Haven't Got, by Sinead O'Connor, ends up way out front in a year dominated by three albums. Combined with Phil Collins' . . . But Seriously and MC Hammer's Please Hammer Don't Hurt 'Em, those three albums spent a total of 30 weeks at No. 1 and at least one of those albums was in the top three from the beginning of the year until Dec. 1. Can you remember last year's top song and album?

The top crossover artist . . . There is only one artist who has two songs on the year-end Hits, Dance, and A/C charts, as well as two on the year-end Album chart. Madonna's Vogue was the No. 1 Dance song, in addition to being the No. 4 Hit and No. 52 A/C song. Keep It Together was also on all three and I'm Breathless was the No. 19 Album, while The Immaculate Collection comes in at No. 40.

A Country sweep . . . Randy Travis claims not just the top song this year, but the top two songs! Hard Rock Bottom Of Your Heart is the No. 1 Country song. Settling for the No. 2 spot is He Walked On Water. Close behind is Garth Brooks and Ricky Van Shelton. Both also have two songs in the top 10.

The top Canadian album . . . By a wide margin, Alannah Myles' self-titled debut album is the top Canadian album. It was also the top Canadian album last year when it was the No. 5 Album of the year. This year, it comes in a notch better at No. 4. Two other albums in the top 10 this year, were also in the top 10 last year. Milli Vanilli's Girl You Know Its True is No. 8 this year, after having the No. 2 album last year. Paula Abdul's Forever Your Girl was No. 6 last year and is No. 9 this year.

The top Canadian song . . . With the No. 2 song of the year, Alias' More Than Words Can Say is, by far, the top Canadian song of 1990. It spent four weeks on top of the Hit Tracks chart (no Canadian song has ever spent five or more weeks at No. 1).

The most charted artist . . . If you add the Hit Tracks, Dance, A/C, Album, and Country year-end charts, one artist appears more times than any other. Madonna's name appears eight times, Phil Collins' names appears 10 times, but Janet Jackson's name appears in a total of 11 places (five on the Hit Tracks, three on the Dance, two on the A/C, and one on the Album).

Last year's best . . . The No. 1 song last year was Madonna's Like a Prayer and the No. 1 album was Fine Young Cannibal's The Raw & The Cooked.

What's that funky smell . . . ! ? Vancouver's 99.3 FOX was up to more funny business last October with their odorous promotion event: Pile O' (incredibly smelly) Sneakers. Brave morning show hosts Larry and Willy made a plea for the public's "worst, smelly, torn up, unbearable sneakers" and for two weeks the duo picked

Toronto's Tafelmusik signed to Sony Classical

Guenther Breest, President of Sony Classical, has announced the signing of Tafelmusik, Toronto's period instrument orchestra, to a "long-term exclusive" recording contract. The signing, which took place in New York (Oct. 11/90), seals what is described as "an unprecedented commitment" to as many as twenty compact discs over the next two years.

Tafelmusik albums will be released on Vivarte, Sony Classical's new series dedicated to recording historically-accurate performances of early music. The series will debut in Canada in December. The artists engaged for recording on the Vivarte series are regarded as "specialists in authentic performances using period instruments." Wolf Erichson, who has worked with Tafelmusik on recent projects, oversees the production of Vivarte recordings.

Tafelmusik's debut for the series, Giuseppe Gazzaniga's Don Giovanni, was recorded in the Netherlands in June of this year. Seven additional recording projects are scheduled for Tafelmusik for 1991, five of which will be recorded at the Centre In The Square in Kitchener, Ontario. The Centre has been praised as "acoustically the finest in the country." These recordings will include German flute concertos with Belgian flutist Barthold Kuijken, two recordings of Mozart Symphonies and Serenades and one of Mozart Contradances conducted by Bruno CHUM-FM gives to United Way . . . Morning man Roger Ashby recently presented a cheque for $20,000 to Bill Currie, Campaign Director for the United Way. The money was raised through ticket sales to the Roger Ashby Oldies Dance for the United Way, held at the Royal York Hotel on September 21, 1990. Half an hour after they were put on sale, 900 tickets were sold out. Molson Canadian Rocks was the financial sponsor for the event, enabling CHUM to donate every penny to the United Way.

Office party in paradise . . . ! Toronto radio station CKFM 99.9 will be throwing an office party in Jamaica! Toronto and surrounding area businesses are invited to enter the contest where employees pick three of the office's favourite songs. Each weekday at 11:45 a.m. midday host Terri Michael will play one request from an office's list. 20 businesses will be semi-finalists and be invited to a Jamaican evening out, where the draw for the grand prize will be made: a three-day weekend for 20 at Hedonism II in Negril, Jamaica!

BX93 appoints . . . new General Sales Manager. D.J. Don Peter was given the position of General Sales Manager for both 1290 CJBK and BX 93. The announcement was made by Vice-President and General Manager of the Middlesex Lambton Communications Corporation, Warren Cosford, who pointed out that Peter has done a "great job" with CJBK, and that the addition of the BX 93 responsibility is a "natural progression." Peter commented that he is "excited about the oppor-

Weil, Handel Concerti Grossi and Vivaldi's Four Seasons. The Vivaldi violin concertos will feature music director Jean Lamont as soloist.

Tafelmusik is quite well known in classical circles in both North America and Europe, having toured regularly since 1984. The orchestra's recording of Boccherini won the 1989 Juno Award as Best Classical Album, Large Ensemble.

Axon Studios moves facilities downtown

Axon Studios, a production house which specializes in radio and television jingles, has moved into expanded facilities in central Toronto after a successful decade in the city's north end.

The studio's jingle credits include commercials for Cineplex Odeon, Harley Davidson, O'Toole's and Pioneer Stereo, as well as themes for several television programmes and music for live theatre.

Axon is run by founder and principal George Axon, jingle writer Ed Roth and chief engineer Jamie Sulek.

The new address is 181 Carlaw Avenue, Suite 311, Toronto, Ontario, M4M 2S1, (416) 778-0055.

tunity," and is "most anxious to start creating various types of advertising and promotional campaigns designed to meet the needs of BX 93's clientele."

Sister stations BX-93 and 1290 CJBK scored well this period in the BBM ratings for London stations, with BX-93 showing a 46 percent increase in all day parts in the 18 plus demo since this time last year. After a slight format change and the acquisition of the Blue Jays and Maple Leaf rights for the area, 1290 CJBK increased its weekly circulation by 32 percent this year in the station's primary demo of the 25-49ers.

More Milli Vanilli schtick . . . LG73's LG Morning Zoo recently awarded the Official NFL Lifetime Suspension award to Milli Vanilli after they did a survey showing that a majority of callers believed the artists are fakes, with a vote of 3,500 to 2,500. The survey was, of course, prompted by the revelation that the German duo did not actually do any of the singing on their million-selling album, Girl, You Know It's True. Well, at least the pair won't have to worry about this one being rescinded!

U.S. band wins Band Explosion '90 in Japan

For the second year in a row, an American band has won the finals of Band Explosion, the world's largest band competition.

The finals of the fourth annual Band Explosion were held in Tokyo on October 28. Fullerton, California quartet Stikkitty beat out a field of 16 groups from around the world with their performance of The Pathetic Song. Judges included producer Bruce Faibairn, David Bates, head of A&R at Phonogram U.K., David Patch of Toto, Spike of the London Quireboys and Japanese keyboardist Matasaka Matsutoya.

The sixteen finalists were chosen from an estimated 23,000 bands in 26 countries. In addition to the grand prize of $20,000 U.S., five Gold Prizes of $5,000 U.S. were awarded to Khatulistiwa of Indonesia, The Next of the former GDR, New Roze of Japan, Tower Principle of Australia and The World of Denmark.

Canada's finalist was Toronto's Last Stand.

COUNTRY

Lisa Brokop is rounding out a very successful year with the launch of Howdy!, the official Lisa Brokop Fan Club Newsletter. 1990 saw the release of the teen country sensation's first single, Daddy Sing To Me. It spent 25 weeks on the RPM Country 100, peaking at No. 10. In the past year Lisa also performed for thousands of people at the JR Country Picnic and the Big Valley Jamboree, opened for Willie Nelson at Vancouver's Pacific Coliseum, won a B.C. Country Music Association award as best new artist and appeared on the Tommy Hunter Show. Membership in the Lisa Brokop Fan Club, which includes a subscription to the newsletter, can be had for $10 by writing to Lisa Brokop Fan Club, 6582-128th Street, Surrey, B.C. V3W 4C8, (614) 594-1103.

WX 1130's first annual Real Country Songwriters Competition has come to a close. Ten winners were chosen from among 235 entries by five successful Nashville songwriters, all of whom have written number one Billboard hits. Bobby Wood (author of many number one hits, including Merle Haggard's recent chart-topper Better Love Next Time) chose Swinging Doors by Laurie Thain and Only We Can by Ron Irving. Peter McCann (author of Jennifer Warnes' hit Right Time Of The Night) chose One Hell At A Time by Martinique and Heart Like A Rodeo by Michael Saxell. Pat Alger (Kathy Mattea's Goin' Gone and She Came From Fort Worth, Texas) chose Harrison Lloyd's So Easy To Lose and Bobby Teesdale's Till I'm Holdin'

You. Richard Leigh (Crystal Gayle's I'll Never Get Over You and Don't It Make My Brown Eyes Blue) picked Talk To The Rock by John P. McLaughlin and Believer Of Me by John Mitrikas. Ralph Murphy (Crystal Gayle's Talking In Your Sleep; James Royal's Call My Name) chose Brian Bleakney's Rainbow Country and That Old Dirt Road by Ken McCoy. Each of the winners spent a day co-writing with the judges in Vancouver. The completed songs will be produced by Ralph Murphy and Bobby Wood in Vancouver studios with session musicians and released on a Musicline Records CD.

The Canadian Country Music Association is moving. Their new address, effective January 4, 1991, is 3100 Steeles Ave. West, Concord, Ontario L4K 3R1, phone (416) 739-5014, fax

The Debenham Bros. have a new album, If You Can Hear Me, released on Hitsound Records of Rotterdam, Holland. The ten tracks are all Debenham originals. The first release track is Will My Heart Survive, written by Dave Debenham, and Dave reports that "response so far has been excellent."

The Good Brothers' latest video, She Told Me So, has been added into regular rotation on the Country Music Television network in the United States. She Told Me So was a recent Canadian hit, reaching number ten on the RPM Country 100 (August 4/90). The video, filmed at the Good Brothers' rehearsal hall in Mount Albert, Ontario, was directed by Dermot Shane and produced by Elizabeth Young for Sterling Hayley Pictures of Vancouver. She Told Me So is the second video by a Savannah recording artist to be playlisted on CMT in recent months. In August, Gary Fjellgaard's Somewhere On the Island clip rose to number 14 on the CMT chart, the highest climb for a Canadian country video in several years.

Springhill, Nova Scotia can lay claim to more than one musical resident. Impact, a talented quartet from Anne Murray's home town, recently released their debut effort, a cassette entitled Part Of You. Impact, which formed in 1983, consists of Gerald Davis on guitar and lead and harmony vocals, David McClelland, guitar, lead and harmony vocals, Leah (Ruddick) Killen, lead and harmony vocals, and Donald Tabor, lead and harmony vocals.
